REPLY BRIEF

Honorable Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks
Washington, D.C. 20231

June 9, 1999

This Reply Brief is respectfully submitted on behalf of Appellants in response to new points of argument indicated in the Examiner's Answer dated April 9, 1999, which issued in connection with the above-identified application.

Response to New Points of Argument

It is respectfully submitted that the following remarks are submitted on behalf of Appellants responsive to new points of argument raised in the Examiner's Answer be fully considered and entered in this Appeal pursuant to 37 C.F.R. § 1.193(b).

The new points of argument raised in the Examiner's Answer are located at page 5, lines 6-10, page 6, line 18 to page 7, line 3 and page 9, lines 9-13 of the Examiner's Answer dated April 9, 1999. At these locations, the Examiner asserts that choosing different color powder coatings to obtain the desired final color is a routine practice in the paint art. When making this assertion, the Examiner makes reference to home improvement stores, for example, Sears or Home Depot. Appellants respectfully submit that the Examiner appears to be confusing the paint art with the powder coating art according to the present invention. Specifically, these are completely different arts.

Appellants respectfully submit that there is no motivation provided by Miller '557 to select different colors of powder coatings. Additionally, Miller '557 provides no suggestion indicating that one of ordinary skill in the art could mix different colored powder coatings and under the conditions of the present invention, achieve a single-layered powder coating having a homogeneous hue. Moreover, as discussed above, the assertion by the Examiner that it is routine practice in the paint art to mix colors, is completely irrelevant to the present claims since the present claims are not directed to a paint composition, but rather to a powder coating composition. Accordingly, Appellants submit that the Examiner is incorrect in analogizing the present claims to that of the paint art.

It is submitted for the above reasons, as well as the reasons indicated in the Appeal Brief filed March 1, 1999, that all of the presently appealed claims are patentable. It is further respectfully requested that the U.S. Board of Appeals and Interferences reverse the Examiner's Final Rejection of the appealed claims and render a decision favorable to the Appellants.

If necessary, the Commissioner is hereby authorized in this, concurrent, and further replies, to charge payment or credit any overpayment to Deposit Account No. 02-2448 for any additional fees required under 37 C.F.R. § 1.16 or under 37 C.F.R. § 1.17; particularly, extension of time fees.

Respectfully submitted,
